() or Reighbor seems in think (hat the admiss or hat Congress con control the action of the Territories if it chooses is a sensible mitigation of the gra eral enormity of his doctrine that it shall neve nder any circumstances of injustice or excess be allowed to do it. He appears now to think (though he d dn't once) that it might be a terreble thing to Party. to protect the rights of the South in the Territorles be constitutional rights of the South into He evidently considers, that, although the people of the South might with some show of justice complain if the constitutional power of Congress to protect their rigids in the Territories were enied, they ought to be satisfied if not delighted with the doctrine that Congress shall never actually protect their rights, an matter how grossly violated, or how intolerably oppressed. He cencaives that the concession of our right to the substance ought to reconcile us to the possession of the shadow. We do not agree with him. Nor do the people of Kentucky. Nor does any one of sound, unclouded judgment anywhere. In the month of a professed adherent of the Dred Scott decision our neighbor's language is really the very flower of aleardity. It is the pink of trickery and of nonsense.

ry expresses exactly the views we entertain, and have repeatedly uttered, though certainly never with greater force. "The Abolitionist," he says, ting on the recent debate in the Sonate, "who affirms the power of Congress to pass the Wilmot Pracaning what he says and saying what he meane. and talks budly of the protection af laded by the Constitution to slave property, and n the same breath aments the right of a Territorial Legislature, the mere creature of Congress, to over-turn the organic law of the confederacy by unfriend-ly legislation, tramples just as effectually upon our constitutional rights, and at the same time offers an insult to our understanding. If Southern men have the night, under the Constitution, to carry their slaves into the comman faviliars, then it is a second of the comman faviliars, then it is a second of the comman faviliars. with the Constitution by unfriendly legislation, it is simply a question whether the Constitution shall yield obedience to them or they to the Constitution.

The mere allograng states at the or they to the Constitution. erely its agents, put themselves in antagmism is simply a question whelber the Constitution shall yield obedisence to them or they to the Constitution.

The mere abstract right to take alayses into the Territories is not worth a straw, if there is not sooms when the tex collectors and other officers are overpower to enforce it; and the Constitution is not worth the paper on which it is engrossed, if its pro-risions can be nullified and the rights of the sovereign owners of the soil be defeated by the repreatives of the first squetters who happen to con gregate there. There is no conflict between the poion assumed by the Southern Senators in this de-te, and the principles of the Kanase-Nebraska bill. That bill provided for no surreader of our ion in the Territories, but only that Congress should neither logislate alavery into nor out of the Territories. Is demanding that the protecti n afforded by the Constitution shall no; be super-seded by the hostile acts of a territorial Legislature, we are not asking Congress in legislate slavery into the Territory, but to see that, as property, it reeives the protection to which the ornatic law entities it. The idea sometimes advanced by Southern territories from Congress, is to concede their right to exclude it, is to the last degree preposterous and nationable. It is a new doctrine, that because he who is charged with the execution of a trust is bound to secure the rights of those for whom it was sted, in the trust property, he may therefore rive them from all participation in its benefits," There is no withstanding this; and our nelgobor, and his allies in Kentucky, if he has any, will find

Collers is the attempt the editor of the Deme rat makes to crowl out of the cut de suc in which

eally think it. Indeed, we know it. Excuse us,

The editor of the Democrat having made the olical amertion that everybody in Kentucky is in favor of aquatter-covereignty, we called an the Best arracy of the State, his own political friends, to say whether or not, so far as they were concerned, his representation was correct. It was in direct allusion to this call that our neighbor made the "remark" in question. This is the remark:

Now, as we called for no "upinions" but those of secrata, how could our neighbor have meant any but Democrats when he intimated that our call would be in vain, leasunch as soms were "afraid to speak, me too prudent to speak?" If he did mean any but Democrata, will be have the kindness, if he has the impeach their sincerity. There are publicly least no lwo opinions in Kentucky respecting square in the speaking of any when compelled to speak," would leave Brown, Davis, Mason, &c., to "exarcise themselves alone in the Democratic party?" We should really of the Twenty-second of February didn't unke it the to know, and probably the public would, loo, how the speaking of Whige or Americans in favor of squatter-systemizaty, if any Whig or American and a score of other enermities, monstrous yet us and a score of other enermities, monstrous yet us and a score of other enermities, monstrous yet us and a score of other enermities.

Mason alone in the Democratic party! Our neighbor will have to try again.

The editor of the Democrat, it will be observed, dared to utter a word on any of three? while denying or insinuating a denial that his "re mark" applies to "Democrats only," does not deny that it applies to Lemocrats. The only consolation therefore which his axplanation if it were anything het ridivalent most applied to the second to the se friends in Kentucky would be derived from the fact that he thicks some of the Opposition as great cowards and hypocrites as they are.

Wa again ask the Democracy of Kentucky if they entertain opinions on the only surviving point of the slavery question which they "are afraid" or "too prudest" to avon? The editor of the Louis-illa Democrat, save they do. And he is one of the "too prudent" to avon? The edutor of the Louis-ville Democrat says they do. And he is one of the ablest and most respectable of their number. Gen-tlemen Democrata! let us hear from you. You

How in a twinkling has its deep shadow vanished before the aplendor of his fall-orbed knowledge of "the state of politics in Kentucky." We ought certainly to feel extremely cheap. We do. And our chagrin is the keener from the opportunities of information we so inexcasably neglected whilst our neighbor and we suppose everylody sless in Kentucky improved them. We are nobedy. The Det cratic candidates find that they are beaten, and they are as captions and sore headed as can be. The

The city never has had but NIM ballot-boxes, on according to all the reasoning of the Democra candidates, the elections held since 15% are red to their seats. That is ridiculous, ther neighbor could not have examined the city charter, or he would have seen that the Council have the right change the precincts at will, without any regard to time, and that the act of assembly of 1856 only prescribed that the chance should be made for St tan. This demand was made, not upon the Council, he upon the officers, and was pramptly refused; but it is an entire reversal of Democratic doctrice, which last year refused even to listen to any argument i in the Legislature by Mr. Dancan. If the Council were now to order this to be done at the suggestion of Democrats and pass the necessary appropriation and if the collectors had the time to do it, we should hear it denonneed before eix months had passe ! a vile and willful waste of the public mnney. City Council will doubtless do all that is necess to give a fair election, and will probably not con any advantages to the other party. We have not said anything about the appointment of officers of election further than to express an opinion that one Democrat should be appointed in each Ward as Judge, which is more than they would give us if they had the power. An act of Assembly entitled HAVE THIS MORNING RECEIVED BY E an act to amond section 1, article 3, chapter 32 of Revised Statutes, approved February 11, 1858, providing that officers of elections shall be divided equally among political partie, applies only State elections, for it distinctly enucts a penalty f the non-observance of the act upon "all officers that there is as little withstanling the sentiment which lies behind it is the sterling heart of the peo-The ingenious manner to which the Democrats hav

SUNDAY DISPATCHES.

Official information will go out in to-morrow's Pacific mail of the ratification of the ten treation with Indians in Oregon and Washington. As this two place during the late extraordinary session of the Sensts after Congress adjourned, no appropriation could be made to carry them into immediate effect. It was mainly owing to explanations from Gen. Lans that these treation were ratified, that gentleman having convirced his brother Senstora that they would tend to permanent peace. He had the office of the sensor of Senstor Givin and ex-Gov.
